PLANNING NEW MEXICAN RULE

Conflicting Reports Leave Fate of Carranza In Doubt

CARRANZA'S FLIGHT

Rebels Claim Capture of Matamoros—Anticipate Counter Revolution of Ex President's Followers

Reports of progress in the political organization of the new Mexican revolution were received in Washington yesterday but the situation of the deposed President, Carranza, remained undefined.

Dispatches from Vera Cruz said he was fighting off the revolutionists at a point near San Marcos, about half way between the capital and Vera Cruz, but no report, official or otherwise, came from Mexico City to contradict claims of revolutionary agents in the United States that he had been captured.

The last reports received by the State Department from the Embassy at Mexico City was a report dated May 9, but communication by wireless has been established and instructions sent to the Charge d'Affaires to communicate fully. The dispatches received related to the flight of Carranza, who was reported to have taken with him 27,000,000 pesos in Government funds.

Luis Cabrera, chief of Carranza's Cabinet, is one member of the official family who appears to have escaped by independent route. According to the revolutionists, Cabrera covered his departure from the capital for three days, by leaving a written statement for newspaper men who were in the habit of seeing him every day. He was stopped by the revolutionists at Chihuahua, they said, but permitted to continue to the American frontier, and upon the instructions of General Obregon offered money for his expenses.

The addition of Matamoros, opposite Brownsville, Texas, to the list of rebel control in the towns was reported to the revolutionary agents here. Their report said also that Antonio Villarreal, a political exile, was on his way to Monterey to assume charge.

EASTER-WHITE WEDDING

A wedding of interest to a number in this city was that of Miss Julia Gibson Easter to Mr. John Ellington White, Jr., of Anderson, S. C., which took place yesterday in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank J. Martin, 1329 Emerson street, Washington. The ceremony was performed at noon by the father of the bridegroom, the Rev. John Ellington White, of Anderson, S. C. The bride was attended by her two young nieces little Misses Andrea Martin and Frances Rumsey. The best man was Mr. John C. Easter, brother of the bride. The house was handsomely decorated with spring blossoms, white predominating in the bower of green, under which the bridal party stood for the ceremony. A string orchestra played the wedding music. A buffet breakfast followed the ceremony. The bride wore a gown of white crepe meteor, trimmed with rose point lace, and a white picture hat. She carried lilies of the valley and orchids, and her only ornament was a necklace of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The flower girls wore white organdie and carried baskets of sweetheart roses. The bride and bridegroom left in the afternoon for a trip north before settling in their new home in Anderson, the bride wearing a suit of dark blue tricotine, with small blue hat, and a corsage of lilies of the valley. The bride is a descendant of the first bishop of Maryland, Bishop Clay-ett, on one side, and of Governor Thomas King Carroll, also of Maryland. Among the out of town guests, in addition to the father of the bridegroom, was his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce White, of Raleigh, N. C. Mrs. W. H. L. Nelms, of Atlanta, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Buddin, of Alexandria. The groom is a nephew of Mrs. Buddin, and his parents have been house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Buddin in Rosemont, this week, as has also Mrs. Nelms.

Program Complete

Elaborate Plans Made to Entertain Delegates to State Retail Association

The Retail Merchants Bureau of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce held their regular monthly meeting last night. A large number of members were in attendance.

This meeting was largely devoted to perfecting arrangements for the entertainment of the Virginia State Retail Merchants Association, which will be the guests of this association and will hold their annual meeting here on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, May 19 and 20, at which time it is expected that approximately one hundred delegates will be in attendance. A most attractive program has been arranged for this meeting, the announcement of which will appear in this paper early next week.

It was decided to place signs on all roads leading into Alexandria beginning from a distance of ten (10) miles from this city, the signs displaying the slogan "Shop in Alexandria" and give the distance from that point to the city. These signs will be constructed and put up in the immediate future.

Reports from members indicated a successful "Dollar Day" sale yesterday.

HISTORICAL POINTS IN ALEXANDRIA

Tentative Data Submitted by Chamber of Commerce

SEEK OTHER DATA

Information of Other Points of Historical Interest Will be Gladly Received

The Alexandria Chamber of Commerce submits herewith some tentative data concerning historical places in Alexandria and vicinity before and during the Revolutionary War period, and would be glad to have any reliable data that any citizen may have in order that a complete compilation may be made.

Christ Church—Cameron and Columbus Streets, Geo. Washington regularly attended during and after the Revolution and was a vestryman; Robert E. Lee was confirmed here in 1853 and likewise was a pew holder; Many patriots of the Revolution attended this church and Pohick.

Carlyle House—S. E. Cor. Cameron near Fairfax Street, Here the first suggestion was made for Colonial Taxation, by the British General Braddock, to Lord North's Government; Here, in the famous Council of Governors, plans were laid for the disastrous Braddock Campaign, intended to wrest the continent from the French; Here Washington and Carlyle were given commissions on Braddock's Staff.

City Hotel—Formerly Gadsby's Tavern, S. W. Cor. Cameron and Royal Streets, Here Washington first met the Widow Custis; Here were held the celebrated social functions of which George and Martha Washington were the central figures; Here John Paul Jones and Lafayette first met; Here Washington gave his last military order to the Virginia Militia, who were later to face England in a second war.

Washington's Headquarters—Adjoining City Hotel, "Claggett's Tavern", 132 North Royal Street, Washington recruited his first command here in 1754; Thence Washington started on the march to Great Meadows and saved the remnants of Braddock's Army.

Site of Washington's "Town House" lot No. 508 Cameron Street near Pitt. Had a paid secretary here to look after visitors to Mt. Vernon; His niece, Mrs. Geo. Washington, afterwards resided here.

Site of Old Colonial Jail—Site of present police headquarters. Here Jeremiah Moore, a "stroller," was imprisoned for "Preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ without license," and preached through the latticed doors.

Site of Old Colonial Court House—N. W. Cor. of Market Square. Here, before Justice (Col.) Broadwater, Patrick Henry defended Jeremiah Moore in 1773 thus securing his release from "life imprisonment." Here was probably presented the "Fairfax County Resolves," by Geo. Mason, in 1774, first suggesting religious liberty. Here in 1783, probably was held, Washington participating, the first meeting which led to the great Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia.

Washington's Free School—S. E. Cor. Washington and Wolfe Streets. This was the first free school in Virginia, and endowed by Washington. "Light Horse Harry" sent his son Robert E. Lee, to this school in 1811 and afterwards to Hallowell's School opposite Mr. C. C. Carlin's home.

House of "Light Horse Harry" Lee—611 Cameron Street—near Washington. Lee was as ardent a supporter of the Federal Power in Government as afterwards his son, Robert E. supported States' Rights. Lee always defended Washington in political contests, and in a memorial address used the words "First in War, First in Peace, etc."

House of Gen. Robordeau—418 S. Lee Street, near Wilkes. Who came with Lafayette from France to aid in the Revolution. Who became one of Washington's Generals.

House of Dr. James Craik—210 Duke Street between Lee and Fairfax. Was surgeon under Washington in the French and Indian War. Was Surgeon-General in the Continental Army even to Yorktown. Washington frequently dined with "My Old Friend, Dr. Craik." Craik was summoned to the death bed of Washington and his wife.

House of Dr. Dick—209 Prince Street, between Lee and Fairfax. Was one of the physicians with Washington when he died. Officiated at Masonic Service at Washington's funeral. Was converted to the belief of the Quakers and threw his duelling pistols in the Potomac. His grave is in the Quaker Cemetery on Queen street.

First Presbyterian Church—Fairfax between Duke and Wolfe Streets. Here is buried Rev. Dr. Muir pastor, who officiated at Washington's funeral as chaplain of the Masonic Lodge. Here is buried John Carlyle, who fought for England against France, and fought with Washington against England, losing a son in the battle of Etow Springs, S. C. Here is buried Dr. James Craik probably the most intimate friend of George Washington. Here is buried, with other heroes, General Robordeau, who braved the displeasure of the French Government to help in the Revolution.

Lafayette House.—Cor. Duke and St. Asaph Streets. Here was entertained Lafayette in 1824.

Relics in Washington Lodge—In Market Square. The old clock which was, stopped by an attending physician.

Y. M. C. A. BOARD MEETING TONIGHT

Headquarters Now in Westminster Building

CLEARANCE HOUSE

Members to Meet K. E. Wallace Who Is Now In Charge of The Work in Alexandria.

C. C. Lamond, president of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association, has called a meeting of the board tonight at 8 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce. It is understood that the ministers of the city are invited to meet with the board in order that they may have an opportunity to meet the new general secretary, Mr. K. E. Wallace, who has just lately come to take up the work in Alexandria.

The headquarters of the Association are located in the Westminster Building where Mr. Wallace has already established an office. A telephone is to be installed at once and it is planned to make the office a clearing house for the social service activities of the churches of the city, as far as they desire to use its good offices. Mr. Wallace explained that he was simply an assistant pastor to any minister of the city that desired to use his services, and as general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., he was glad to so serve.

It is expected that a full attendance of the board and most of the ministers will greet the new secretary at the first meeting tonight.

HEALTH OFFICER SHOULD ACT NOT TALK

(Communicated)

Breeding season now well under way, action should have been taken sooner.

In the Alexandria Gazette of May 11, we took particular interest in an article written by Health Officer Foulkes, in which he stated that filth breeds flies.

The writer would like to ask what has been done by his department to stamp out this pest, as we have long since discovered that action rather than words is necessary. Particularly we would call his attention to the Northwestern section of this city, where the water is lying in the gutters in this section, and is green with filth and vermine which he says breeds flies. We might call his attention to the fact that this is the city's duty fully as well as the people's.

The residents of this city will be very glad to take their share of this burden if they can be sure of any cooperation from the health department. The streets, alleys and sidewalks of this town are not in any condition to be proud of, especially we would recommend that the health officer look into some of the back alleys in the above section, where he can see the reason for disease and flies. To my knowledge nothing is being done about these things up to the present writing.

Although the newspaper is a very good medium, a personal talk with the people would be received with much more gratifying results and results are what the people are looking for.

The health officer say, "If there was no filth about there would be no flies. It can thus readily be seen that the fly question is entirely in our own hands," we take it for granted that "our own hands" includes his hands, though we must say that if the officer ever had the solution in his hands he must have opened them and let it drop.

The manure and garbage piles of which he speaks not only lie around on personal property, but also, on public thoroughfares as well, we have got to get these.

A week or so ago several youths were brought before the Police Court to answer the charge of throwing baseballs in the streets to the annoyance of residents and passers-by. They had previously been warned by the officer, but renewed the diversion when they supposed he had left the neighborhood. The policeman was in a nearby alley, however, and happening placed all under arrest. They were fined a nominal amount and admonished. Yesterday half a dozen or more young men were arraigned on a similar charge. They also had nominal amounts assessed against them and warned of the consequences of using the streets for ball throwing when there are plenty of nearby places where this sport can be indulged in.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear father, Messiah Drumheller, who departed this life 3 years ago today, May 13, 1917.

It was hard to give you up dear father.

And I miss you more than tongue can tell.

But I know thou art resting.

In that home where Jesus dwells, I may smile when some think I should weep.

Why should I weep for the dear father, For thou art gone to rest I loved you, But Jesus loved you best. 115-1p. By his daughter, Louise.
